Dear Faith Leader,

We live in a time of deep and rapid change. The challenges we face as a human community are difficult even to name, the questions hard to formulate and reasonable answers a shot in the dark. Trust in the institutions which are tasked with dealing with these challenges is very low. Many have lost trust in us, our communities and our traditions.

Many of our faith traditions are ancient. We have seen times of deep and dizzying change before. We each have examples of how our ancestors in faith have risen in such times to ask painful questions and share their wisdom, helping people to remember what it is to be human. We are likewise invited to share our wisdom and ponder the wisdom of others as we find our way through this time.

The Treacy Levine Center invites faith leaders to join Jim Wallis for a conversation on America's Original Sin: Racism, White Privilege and the Bridge to a New America. Jim Wallis will help us explore

- the crucial role that faith leaders and faith communities can play in the area of racial equity
- how we can prepare our own faith communities for such work
- how we can engage others from the heart of our faith traditions without requiring others to share them

Please join us for this free event, specifically designed for faith leaders

Saturday, September 16, 2017
