CONFERENCE DESCRIPTION

“Learn your theories as well as you can, but put them aside when you touch the miracle of the living soul.”

— C. G. Jung

This conference is for depth-oriented professionals longing to foster the central presence of soul in profession and vocation.

We anticipate attendees from multiple professions, such as law, psychotherapy, bodywork, education, religious, and medicine.

The focus of the presentations will enhance participants’ deepened awareness of this core Care of Souls tradition and its sophisticated application to their professional practice.

The presenters are distinguished by a depth perspective into the Care of Souls tradition for contemporary professions, through a variety of lenses.

Three conference learning goals are foundationally structured into each presentation design. In this depth psycho-spiritual exploration, you will:

- Review the history of the Western Care of Souls tradition.
- Learn current and evolving applications of this core tradition.
- Imagine how ancient reverence for the Anima Mundi, the spirit of the world, can be restored and deepened.

PLENARY SPEAKERS

Plenary presenters are

Matthew Fox, PhD, Theologian; Ann Belford Ulanov, PhD, Jungian Analyst;
and David Whyte, Poet.

Matthew Fox

“Meister Eckhart and Our Search for an Expanded Soul”

Jung prophetically talked about “modern man in search of a soul” and the search goes on with post-modern people. We will explore the many profound ways Eckhart invites us to think and rethink our understanding of soul and to grow it as only a deep mystic can.

“Soul Healing, World Healing: Confronting Evil in Soul and Society”

Meister Eckhart says “the soul is the world.” Clearly we cannot talk about “care of souls” without talking about “care of the world.” Jung said that the Age of Aquarius will be characterized by evil no longer being under the table but on top of the table for all to see. The question will be whether we have the will to deal with it.

Ann Belford Ulanov

“Soul Found and Lost”

In the West, attention to spiritual and mental life originally was subsumed under the Care of Souls, as if one full river of religious and psychological currents blended indistinguishably. We will explore what soul is in its many guises. The soul refuses to be refused.

“Soul Lost and Found”

People come to clinicians with an eye to soul as well as psyche because they feel their soul has been lost. Many people are longing for deeper meaning in their lives—to be alive, plugged into the heart of life. What became two rivers that forked into seemingly separate directions, now flow toward each other into one again.

David Whyte

“The Art and Practice of Creating a More Beautiful Mind”

With a compelling blend of poetry, humor and insight, poet, author and philosopher David Whyte will examine the role of the imagination as a faculty of perception, a central integrative intelligence able to discern the complex patterns that surround human beings.

CLOSING PLENARY PANEL

The Care of Souls and the Care of Mother Earth:
Healing an Ailing Anima Mundi, the Soul of the World

How does the Care of Souls tradition help us understand and intervene in the planetary eco-crisis all around us? How do we tend to this grieving, ailing Mother Earth in our profession, in our person? A closing panel, anchored by Ann Ulanov and Matthew Fox, will constellate a community conversation about this aching dilemma facing us and our beloved planetary Home.
